It is believed that the Laws and Regulations of this Institution as recently modified, present so many inducements to studious and orderly habits, and provide so many checks to indolence and misconduct as to secure the utmost diligence and propriety of behaviour on the part of the Scholars and Students. For the information of the religious community, it may be proper to remark, that by a statute of the Visiters, the college chapel has been opened, and students (without being compelled) will have an opportunity of attending prayers every morning previous to the commencement of the daily Collegiate exercises.

They, who are desirous to enter any of the classes, the ensuing session, are earnestly advised to be present at the commencement of the course, as much injury will result from delay in this particular.

FROM THE NATIONAL INTELLIGENCER.

DANIEL WEBSTER.—The Virginia Advocate published at Charlottsville, is one of the most decided, and even violent Jackson papers in the Union, but we believe conscientiously and disinterestedly so. The magnanimity of the following just tribute to the character of a distinguished citizen of Massachusetts is in admirable contrast to the abuse which has been poured upon him from the government presses generally, and entitle the Editor to a respect, which we shall not be deterred from offering to him by the recollection of the gross injustice which we have ourselves occasionally received from the same source. Speaking of and doubting the probability of his ever reaching the highest office in the gift of the People, the Editor uses the following language:

"We have no hesitation in saying that a better man is not to be found among the coalition party. He has been much abused 'tis true, of late years, by certain democratic demagogues; but Daniel Webster is an honest man—and as the world goes, a fair politician; and never did and never will swerve from the path of rectitude and honor Err in judgment he may; open to conviction he is; capable of any thing mean or selfish he is not. No man is more elevated above littleness of soul. He is mighty among the mighty of the earth; and charitable as the dews of heaven. And, what is paramount to all this, in our estimation, he is what he is unaided by any fortuitous or factitious influence of family, friends, or fortune. The architect of his own fame, a genuine son of the 'granite State,' and a plain farmer's boy, but rather indolent withal, he has fairly acquired his pre-eminence at the bar, and in the councils of the nation, by dint of his own talent. The God that made him gave him all his mighty majesty of mind, his magnanimity and moral grandeur. Hence, no earthly thing can sink Daniel Webster to the level of most of his abusers—some of whom however, have been his venal and extravagant eulogists."

Thomas Jefferson.—In the works of Th. Jefferson, now in a course of publication by Messrs. Gray and Bowen, at Boston is the following letter to his namesake, Thos. Jefferson Smith:

"This letter will, to you, be as one from the dead. The writer will be in the grave before you can weigh its counsels. Your affectionate and excellent father has requested, that I would address you something which might possibly have a favorable influence on the course of life you have to run; and I too, as a namesake, feel an interest in that course. Few words will be necessary, with good dispositions on your part:—Adore God—reverence and cherish your parents—love your neighbor as yourself, and your country more than yourself—be true—murmur not at the ways of Providence: So shall the life, into which you have entered, be the portal to one of eternal and ineffable bliss. And if to the dead it is permitted to care for the things of this world, every action of your life will be under my regard. Farewell.

MONTICELLO, Feb. 12, 1825."

Pronunciation.—The difficulty of applying rules to the pronunciation of our language may be illustrated in the lines, where the combination of the letters ough, is pronounced in no less than seven different ways, viz: as o, uf, of, up, ow, oo, and ock—

Though the tough cough and hiccough plough me through,
O'er life's dark lough my course I still pursue.

FROM THE NEWBERN SPECTATOR.

We have received from Oxford, a pamphlet, printed at the Examiner Office, entitled "An antidote against Debt, Slavery, and Insolvency, addressed to the 'working men' of North Carolina." By 'Graccus.' It is the object of the writer to prevail upon his fellow citizens to do away the credit system, as it exists among us, considering that as the root of the evils that have overspread our State for the last twenty years. To effect this purpose he proposes to abolish the liability of men's property, as well as their bodies, to execution for debt. The pamphlet is well written, and the positions assumed are well sustained. In our next number we will place a large part of the work before our readers, believing that it merits their attentive consideration.

For ourselves, we are free to declare that we concur in a great part, with the views of 'Graccus,' as expressed in this pamphlet.—Never, in our opinion, has a country been visited by a greater curse, of legislative creation, than the 'credit system' as it has prevailed in North Carolina for the last thirty years—and indeed since the subjection of Lands to the operations of a fi. fa.: in other words to be sold for debt. It is not perhaps generally known that it was an act of the British Parliament which first subjected our lands to the writ of fiere facias, and that it was done for the benefit of British traders, the men of Sheffield, Birmingham, Bristol, and Liverpool. This was the act of 6th Geo. II. Martin thus notices it, (Vol. II. p. 15) For assisting British Creditors in the recovery of debts due them in America, a statute was passed this year, (1733) authorizing the admission of exparte testimony, taken before the Mayor, or Chief Magistrate of any city, borough or town corporate, in Great Britain: and lands and houses were made liable to seizure and sale, as goods and chattels. And this too, while their own lands, the lands of England, could not be touched in the like manner! There is no one act could do so much good for North Carolina, as one to exempt lands, or a large portion of them from executions for debts contracted after the passing of the act. It would do more than any thing else to stay the tide of emigration that is daily exhausting our resources. Improvement would begin to take the place of desolation; and families, raised in comfort and refinement, would not daily be rendered houseless and pennyless by the severe operations of this more than Draconic statute.

The Gold Mines.—Every person engaged in digging gold in the Cherokee country has been driven off by the United States' Troops, who amount to upwards of 300 strong and are under the command of Major Wager. Near 200 prisoners were taken and kept in confinement one day and night, and then driven out of the Nation. Some of the Georgians who were taken complained of very harsh treatment, such as being whipped and beaten with swords—the excitment in Hall county against the officers of the detachment of troops in the Nation is strong, and threats have been made of assembling a number of men sufficient to drive them from the country, but the Milledgeville Recorder, from which we take this statement thinks it will not be attempted.

One of the richest gold mines yet discovered in Georgia, has been found on the land of Mr. Elrod, a most respectable citizen of Hall county, who lives 7 or 8 miles from Gainesville. By accounts, this gold mine is indeed a treasure. On the 21st instant, seven hands made at this mine 205 pennyweights of pure gold, equal to about $180, or $26 to the hand per day—the next day, they got about $8 to the hand. This is what is called a ridge mine. The surface is almost covered with rock, all of which contains gold in greater or less quantities, and which is obtained by breaking or pounding the rock.—Savannah Georgian.

A scene of surprise took place the other day among a cargo of emigrants, who had just landed, and who, for the first time in their lives, seemed to have set eyes on a black person. A little negro girl with a face shining like Day & Martin, was crossing the street when the troop of Germans stopped to gaze at her, and expressed astonishment by a variety of strange motions and exclamations.

"Mein Gott!" said an old man taking his pipe from his mouth.

"Jesu Maria!" said a woman, crossing herself.

"O mutter! mutter!" said a child clinging to its mother.

While the little negress, half surprised and half vexed to find herself the object of so much curiosity, said, "I guess you never seed a nigger afore, did ye!" This only astonished the Germans the more to hear the sable imp speak, and we left the parties to get over their mutual surprise as they best could.—N. Y. Constellation.

A skilful Politician.—A skilful Politician, says a modern writer, is like a juggler; if he can only fix the minds of the multitude upon some odd conceit, he can always play off his tricks before their eyes with complete success. When a political juggler tells you what you should keep your eyes upon, always watch him and see what his eyes are upon. Few men pretend to serve others, when they do not aim in the first place to serve themselves.

Extract of a letter to a gentleman in Portland, dated on board the United States ship Concord, at Elsinore, August 1, 1830.

"We arrived here to-day, came to off Elsinore, and fired a salute of thirteen guns, and it was returned from the castle with the same number. We have had a very fine time so far on our cruize, and expect to sail to night for Copenhagen. We shall remain there, it is probable, three or four days, and then proceed up the Baltic. I like the appearance of the country so far, very much; I had no idea that it was so full of vegetation. Mr. Randolph has been very unwell since we left England; we almost dispaired of his life at one time, but he is much better at present.

Jonesborough, Tenn. Oct. 2.

We learn with regret that the town of Surgoinsville, in Hawkins county, and the neighborhood, adjacent to the river, has been for several weeks, unusually sickly; and, in proportion to the population there has been more deaths than has ever been known, in the same length of time, in any part of this country. This fatal fever is attributed to the long continued drought—the river being lower than has ever been known before. We were informed this morning, that in a single family twenty-three persons had died; in three instances, husband and wife had been buried in the same grave; that in one instance nineteen persons who attended the funeral of a neighbor but a few weeks ago, have all since been buried, and that for several miles round, there are but one or two families exempt from sickness. We hope the frosts we have had for two or three nights past, will check this distressing disorder.—Farmer's Journal.

A communication addressed to the editor of the Boston Palladium says, "I have just returned from a journey into New Hampshire. In the town of Portsmouth, I called upon a lady who was 95 years old last February, and she informed me that she had, in the last fortnight, put a quilt 2½ yards square, into a frame, and finished it with her own hands, and without spectacles. On my expressing great surprise, the quilt was produced, and appeared as if it had been made by young fingers. I asked the old lady how she had lived. She said that she had been a very industrious woman. That during the Revolutionary war, she made shirts for soldiers for 9d. a piece, while her neighbors, who could not afford as well as she to be idle, refused the work on account of the price. She has been an early riser, and a temperate eater, and a very cheerful woman, though she has lost most of her children, and seen much trouble."

Election expenses.—Besides our previous notices of this subject, we find the following statements in a late London paper. The reader will recollect that the pound sterling is nearly four and a half dollars.

"It is universally remarked that at the present general election, there is a great lack of candidates for Parliamentary honours; but when it is considered that those who have been the most boisterous in calling out for Parliamentary Reform, have also been the most forward in increasing the expenses of contested elections, by the most wasteful and useless extravagance, it is not to be wondered at that candidates are slow in coming forward. The following statement will account for the scarcity of country gentlemen who are even able to lavish such immense sums, and also for a few who are willing to squander their own fortunes and the future provision for their families in such prodigality, of which those who are guilty may be suspected of incipient insanity.—The last Leicester election cost Mr. Evans £19,000, Otway Cave £10,000, Sir Charles Hastings £16,000, and the Corporation £16,000, in all 61,000.—Warwick cost £27,000, without bribery, Stafford, £14,000, where the voters displayed the Beaumont cockades, said to be worth £5, each in their hats. The china of the Camelford voters was occasionally wrapped, as if by accident, in one pound bank notes. The Northumberland elections cost a very large sum, Mr. Bell propably paid between 60 and £70,000 for his seat of two months from February, and his four session's seat from July, 1826. Mr. Liddell probably £50,000, Lord Howick, £12,000, and Mr. Beaumont was charged upwards of £100,000, but he contrived to pay a much smaller sum.—Yorkshire cost Mr Marshall £30,000; and in 1806 the same county, in the great party contest between Earl Fitzwilliam and the Earl of Harewood, cost the former £150,000, and the latter £160,000, whose son, the present Earl of Harewood, then Viscount Lascelles, lost the election; £40,000 were raised by subscription to support Mr. Wilberforce, but only £25,000, were expended, the remainder being given by the Committee to various public charities. The contest between Lord Belgrave and Sir J. C. Egerton, for Chester, cost Lord Grosvenor £70,000, and eventually it is estimated more than £300,000.

The Crown Diamonds.—The two most valuable diamonds of the French Crown are called the Sanci and Regent. The Sanci takes its name from Nicholas de Harlai de Sanci, who was once its owner. The Sanci, was sold for a crown to the Duke of Burgundy by a Swiss in the 15th century. In 1589, it was in the possession of Antonio, King of Portugal, and by him it was first pledged to De Sanci for 40,000 livers, and subsequently sold for 100,000 livers; De Sanci, in like manner, disposed of it to James II. of England, then resident at St. Germain's from whom it passed into the hands of Louis XIV

The Regent (so named from the Duke of Orleans, Regent during the minority of Louis XV.) was purchased by the Duke for 2,000,000 of livers; it is of still greater value and beauty than the Sanci. The Kings of France wore the diamond in their hats. The Emperor Napoleon had it fixed in the pommel of his sword.

OBITUARIES.—The Waterford [Ireland] Chronicle requests that persons supplying that journal with obituaries, will attend to the following scale of prices. The idea is droll and novel:

For a simple death, two shillings and sixpence.

For the death of a person deeply regretted, five shillings.

For the death of a person who lived a perfect pattern of all the Christian virtues, and died regretted by the whole country, ten shillings.

For the death of a person who possessed extensive literature and profound erudition, superadded to which his whole life was remarkable for piety, humility, charity, and self-denial, one pound.

For the death of a lady, whose husband is inconsolable for her loss, and who was the delight of the circle in which she moved, one pound ten shillings.

For the death of a gentleman, who had been only six months married, who was an example of every conjugal and domestic virtue, and whose widow is in a state of anguish bordering on distraction, two pounds.

For the death of an aristocrat, who was a pattern of meekness, a model of humility, a patron of distressed genius, a genuine philanthropist, an exemplary Christian, an extensive alms-giver, profoundly learned, unremitting in his attention to the duties of his station, kind, hospitable, and affectionate to his tenantry, and whose name will be remembered and his loss deplored to the latest posterity, five pounds.

For every additional good quality, whether domestic, moral, or religious, there will be an additional charge.

To the Afflicted.

Hadlock's Vegetable Powder.

FOR THE DISEASES OF THE LUNGS.

THE Proprietor of this Medicine, after repeated trials of its virtues, which have been attended with the most signal success, now offers it to those who are afflicted by the wasting diseases which it is designed to relieve, in full confidence that it will be found efficacious, particularly if taken in the incipient stages of those diseases. For two years past, this Medicine has been prepared in the form of a powder and taken as an infusion with the most happy success. Among its most prominent qualities the following may be mentioned, as entitled to particular consideration. It promotes that gentle perspiration which is deemed healthy, and checks those sweats which are morbid and pernicious. It relieves chronic affections, and congestion of the lungs, by giving force to the languid circulation. It assauges cough. It promotes a free and mild expectoration. It removes pain from the chest. It relieves asthmatic or difficult respiration. It corrects obstinate costiveness, and thus leaves the bowels in a regular and healthy state. Thus, it is found, that those painful symptoms which indicate diseased lungs, readily yield to this powerful remedy, when seasonably resorted to, and that it restores the patient to that bodily vigour, which that cruel disorder, the consumption, if left to its natural operation, would very speedily destroy.

Certificates respecting the virtues of this medicine will accompany each bottle. Price $1 per bottle or $9 per dozen.

Cape Fear Navigation Company.

COLLECTION OF TOLLS.

WHEREAS the Cape Fear Navigation Company, at a general annual meeting of the Stockholders, held in Fayetteville, July 1819, proceeded to establish, in conformity to the provisions of the charter the following Rates of Tolls upon commodities transported on the Cape Fear, between Fayetteville and Wilmington, of which public notice was at the time given. All persons whom it may concern, will therefore

☞TAKE NOTICE,

That from and after this date, agreeable to a Resolution of the President and Directors of said Company, the lower edge of Tillinghast's Landing, on Cape Fear River, at Campbellton, is fixed on as the point at which all Boats ascending and descending the river between Fayetteville and Wilmington shall pay the Tolls levied by the Ordinance aforesaid The amount of Tolls estimated at the annexed Rates, will be required to be paid to the Agent and Collector of the Company by the master or owner, before the boat will be permitted to pass. And in order to facilitate the collection of the tolls, and prevent delay of the boat, it is required of the Skipper or owner of the boat, to keep a correct list of the freight taken on board, a true transcript of which must be delivered to the Agent and Collector at the point designated. On failure to comply with these requisitions, the boat will be subject to detention, and the expense of the examination will be a charge against the owner of the boat, to be collected with the tolls. The following section of the charter will be rigorously enforced against every boat attempting to pass without paying the tolls, to wit: "And if any vessel shall pass without paying the tolls, then the said Collectors respectively, may lawfully seize such boat or vessel, and sell the same at auction for ready money, after advertising the sale at least ten days; the money arising from which sale, so far as is necessary, shall be applied towards paying the said tolls and all expenses of seizure and sale, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the owner; and the person having the direction of such vessel shall be liable for such tolls if the same is not paid by the sale aforesaid"

The following are the Rates of Tolls established by the Company, to wit:

RATES OF TOLL DOWN THE RIVER.
